

The Fish Club

Celebrity chef Todd English reels in an ocean-lover's feast! Set on the Seattle Marriott waterfront with a spectacular view overlooking Elliot Bay, luscious seafood, fresh Northwest produce and fine regional wines abound. Take advantage of summer days with a leisurely lunch or sunset dinner on the outdoor patio, or enjoy a romantic rendezvous inside. In a rush, don't miss the three-course prix-fixe lunch menu. Or phone in your order, and pick it up curbside. Fish Club's Mediterranean theme enlists favorites such as calamari, Caesar salad, paella, and seared tuna, while also offering the exotic flavors of tandoori-roasted chicken with a pomegranate drizzle, Israeli flatbread with zah'tar, and poached king salmon with medjool dates, grapes, almonds, and ginger. Executive Chef Christopher Frothingham is the perfect fit for the culinary ideas of Todd English, also owner of Olives and Figs, among other restaurants. Frothingham gathers his expertise from travels around the U.S., London, and Thailand, and combines the flavors of the Mediterranean and Pacific Northwest to create the ultimate Seattle dining experience.
